Radius Packaging Wins Blow Molding Excellence Award from SPE

NEW BERLIN, Wisconsin, October 25, 2023 –

Radius Packaging, a leading player in the blow molding industry, has been honored with the Blow Molding Excellence Award by the Society of Plastics Engineers (SPE). This award is a testament to Radius Packaging's dedication to innovation, quality, and leadership in the blow molding sector.

Established in 2021 by the SPE Blow Molding Division Board, the Recognition of Excellence for Blow Molding, given in conjunction with the Annual Blow Molding Conference, highlights a regional molder that looks forward and embraces the core values to promote the blow molding craft and industry. Criteria include regional molders that display innovation in blow molding activities and make capital investments in operations while growing and engaging employees.

This award is a testament to Radius' commitment to innovation, quality, and leadership in the blow molding industry. It is recognition of the hard work and passion of the entire team who continually strive to push the boundaries of technology and deliver high-quality solutions.

This award inspires further innovation, creation, and leadership to deliver cutting-edge solutions. Radius looks forward to continuing the mission of excellence in the field of blow molding.
